Product Manager / Product Owner

Location: Our office is based in Berlin but we are open to hybrid work.

Desired start date: As soon as possible.

About Elucid:

“At Elucid, we believe human health benefits supply chains.”

We are a Berlin-based social enterprise specialized in sustainability services for commodity buyers. We leverage technology to provide comprehensive health coverage to small-scale producers. By offering our customers a solution that generates high-quality data to prove sustainability claims and ensure compliance reporting, we directly improve the health, productivity, and income of farming and artisanal mining communities in their supply chains. This approach fosters a resilient supply chain that enhances producer engagement and improves farmer retention rates.

We are an international team of senior engineers, medical doctors, supply chain experts, economists, and design thinkers. Our current focus is on customers sourcing from Sub-Saharan Africa (Ghana, Côte d'Ivoire, Madagascar) and Latin America (Ecuador, Venezuela) in cocoa, coffee, fresh fruits, and mineral supply chains.

Role Overview:

We are looking for a Product Manager / Product owner driving the product development as Elucid by working with our engineers and business development team to position Elucid successfully as an innovative sustainability provider in a dynamic market. This pivotal role involves:

- Together with our CPO, you are working on all product management processes, starting from the ideation phase to delivery/go-live. This includes contributing to product vision, prioritisation, product status monitoring and optimisation.
- As the product owner in our tech team, you have excellent prioritisation skills and are not afraid to say no and challenge the status quo.
- You facilitate cross-functional collaboration, shaping the development of our product. This can include planning and conduction online and offline workshops with stakeholders around the globe.
- You translate your innovative ideas into lo-fi mock-ups to test them with users and build product features that facilitate user experience and overall user satisfaction.

- You oversee the Q/A testing and evaluation of new product features. You work with our operations teams in multiple geographies to understand their needs and support them in the product implementation.
- You work closely with our data team to understand the challenges of our customers and build this knowledge into our data products.
- You contribute to our vision with your creative and driven nature.
- You create the documentation that serves as the blueprint for clear communication, fostering seamless collaboration among teams, and ensuring that the product vision remains aligned with stakeholder expectations.

What you bring into the team:

- You have experience working as a product owner or manager.
- You enjoy working on different abstraction levels, ranging from a holistic overview to understanding complex feature details.
- You have an analytical mindset, are curious to understand problems at the core, find evidence, investigate and analyse data.
- You are an excellent communicator that works with the team and stakeholders to build product iterations towards a common vision.
- You enjoy working in a cross-functional, international environment. You are fluent in English; additional language skills in German and French or Spanish are a plus.

Why join us:

- Opportunity to promote the sustainability of global supply chains by directly improving the health and livelihoods of small-scale producers.
- Be part of a vibrant, diverse team that values integrity, teamwork, and responsibility.
- Experience a rewarding blend of remote work and a dynamic office environment.
- Competitive salary and attractive additional benefits.

How to apply:

If you are passionate about driving business growth while promoting sustainability and social impact in global supply chains we would love to hear from you!
